These institutions grew and increased and became the peculiar and glorious ornangents of the Christian name and of the civilization thence derived so that people of sound intelligence cannot sufficiently admire them, especially when it is so natural for each to look after his own interests and but other people second.

In the number of such benefactions must not be left out the distribution of money in the interest of almsgiving to which the saying of Christ applies. That which remains the give alors, if lake xi, 41. No doubt, socialists carp at this and would have it altogether aboushed as derogative to the native ability of man. Yet it is done according to the precepts of the Gospel and in a Christian manner; in neither feeds the pride of the distributor nor inflicts any humiliation on the recipient. So far from its being unbecoming to any one, it rather fosters the good fellowship of human association by fostering the obligation of mutual service. There is no one so tich as to have no need of any one else; none so poor that he cannot do his neighbor some good turn. It is human nature that we should confidently ask for and charitably afford a salstance one with another. George Nare, the bartender, was burned on the face and hands and is now in St. Luke's Hospital. The family had a narrow escape. Several women got out with only their night clothes on. The fire extended to the frame building at 73 Broadway, owned by the Glynn estate, and it was badly damaged. The occupants here also got out with but few wraps on. The weather was butterly cold. Rudiger was found in the water on the floor of the barroom in his night clothes and with his body somewhat burned.

There is food for thought in the fact that Rubber Nolan, known as a desperate thief and one perfectly competent to take care of himself, allowed himself to be plundered by a man whom he supposed to be a detective without making the slightest resistance. When he was asked about it yesterday by a reporter, he said with a rising inflection in his tone, indicating surprise.

Why, I thought he was a real cop "While Whalen was soing through Nolan's pockets McClusky and O'Brien were making a desperate blus". They finally broke into a fight and the will McClusky called for help. The valorous Whalen dropped his man to go to his partner's assistance, and Nolan did just what he was expected to do, scooted down the street for all he was worth. He didn't even stop to turn around until he got to the corner of Tenth avenue. Then instead of finding hinself pursued, he say the two alleged detectives and his late fellow prisoner running in the other direction as fast as they could go.

It was a novel situation and the light wasn't long in coming to "Rubber" Nolan. He said things to himself, then went to Capt. Titus, is regular monthly meeting yesterday at 33 Broadway. He was introduced by the etiring president, W. H. Parsons, and in accepting the office promised to do all he could of further the interests of the city and the granization. The board adopted a report of the executive committee declaring the reposed tax on savings bank surpluses to be harsh and unnecessary, and calling for he appointment of a commission of experts o consider the whole question of taxation. lt was a novel situation and the light wasn't long in coming to "Rubber" Nolan. He said things to himself, then went to Capt. Titus, who nearly fell out of his chair when he heard the story. Six detectives were sent out to get the bold men, who had dared to use such a low-down method to rob a fellow professional. They got them in Twenty-third street on Wednesday night, all three of them, but as there were only six detectives and the crooks were three in number, of course they couldn't all be landed. "Jugger" O'Brien got away, and he is supposed to have taken the fast freight for the West, for even crooked me wont sunction such a job as the one that was put up on Nolan, and he wouldn't be safe from betrayal here.

Yesterday in the Centre street court Magistrate Hogan held. Whalen without boul for the General Sessions on a charge of highway robbery. McClusky was fined 310 for carrying a revolver without a permit, the only charge that could be brought against him, and Nolan, much against his will, was sent to the House of Detention.

LONG ISLAND CITY MAP BEATEN. Steal," Says One Tammany Alderman -Nay,

Says the Tammany Leader. The aldermen refused yesterday to adopt the map of the first ward of Long Island City which was prepared by the Board of Public Improvements. The map provides for the discontinuance of several existing streets and the laying out of new ones, the effect of the changes, it has been alleged, being greatly to increase the value of the Calvary Cemetery property and of the land owned by the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Com-

Alderman Wirth (Rep., Brooklyn) said that there was too much sentimental objection to laying out streets over land which had been used as a burying ground. Alderman bridges said he didn't know how Mr. Wirth felt, but that he did not desire to think that people might in future drive fast horses over the bones of his ancestors and progeny.

SECTIONS YESTERDAY. Completed Document Will Be Read To-day Committee to Draw tp a Plan of Our Relations With Cuba Rivera Says These Should Be Decided by Fature Government.

Special Cable Despatch to THE STN HAVANA. Feb. 13. The constitutional con-vention to-day decided to strike out of the ago. Don't you recognize me now?" constitutional project the clause providing for the expulsion of permicious foreigners from the island. There was considerable opposition to this action. Gualherto Gomez cited the case of Mexico, where, he said, there was no peace between the Mexicans and Spanlards until certain Spanish mischief makers had been expelled from the country.

It was also decided that the Congress shall meet twice a year it wend of once. proposed by Gualberto Gomez. He said that the President would have the power to suspend the resolutions of the provincial assemblies and ayuntamientos and also the governors of provinces, giving an account of his action to Congress. If the President should suspend a governor immediately after Congress was dissolved the province would be without a governor for nearly a year, or until Congress reassembled. Sefior Gomez also said that the President would not be governing for so long a time alone if Congress met twice a year.

This seems to be another instance of the lack of confidence entertained by the convention in the future President. The motive for the introduction of this clause was probably the desire of the provinces to protect themselves from the central power, especially if that power should be wielded by Gen. Maximo Gomez.

An amendment providing that naturalized citizens should be eligible for Senators was rejected. The Constitution is now finished and will be read to-morrow.

Schores Quesada, Gualberto Gomez, Villuendas, Silva, and Diego Tamayo have been chosen to draw up a plan of the relations between the United States and Cuba.

Delegate Ruis Rivera has written a long letter to the convention saying that the quesion of relations should be left to the future government of the island. He adds that news has been received from Washington to the effect that the convention should grant concessions to the United States, namely, the control of Cuba's foreign affairs, commercial treaties, and several coaling stations. It is said that those should be granted out of gratitude, but if this is done Cuba will have no cause left for gratitude. In conclusion, Senor Rivera remarks that the joint resolution adopted by the American Congress declared that Cuba should be free

Gen. Maximo Gomez has been summoned as a witness in the Neely case Ramirez, one of the witnesses, declares that when he was an employee in the audit bureau of the Post Office he discovered that certain checks for printed matter had been paid twice by Mr. Reeves, who said that the matter was all right, whereupon Ramirez informed Gen.
